Miss Madge Van T., who was sitting in a huge leathern chair half facing the fire in the open grate, one leg very much under her, the other waving a satin-and-silk combination of foot and ankle in distracting accompaniment to her disturbing speech. Bobby, said Miss Van T., you are darned good-looking; you re strong, straight, and a gentleman; there are times when you are wholly adorable, but, nevertheless, Im not going to the show with you to-night, or to the opera to-morrow, or anywhere any more. There, there, dear boy; you dont have to say anything. You have one of those faces that is absolutely beyond the aid of a vocal organ. It says everything that is in your heart of gold before your brain has time to tinkle a bell. (Typographical errors above are due to OCR software and don't occur in the book.)
