Breath in Cinema Davina Quinlivan

This study considers the placement of the breathing body in film and its implications for the study of embodiment in film and sensuous spectatorship. Quinlivan shapes her engagement with film by foregrounding the human body in the filmic narrative and the viewing experience. This emphasis on the human body as breathing body, coupled with the book's fresh engagement with continental philosophy, poststructuralist film theory and contemporary Western cinema, makes a unique and valuable contribution to the field.
