Maurice Van Es is a plastic artist exploring the photographic medium. In the seven books gathered under the title, 'Now will not be with us forever', he deals with photographys intrinsic dimension: seizing a moment that will never return. He focuses on his close environment, family and familiar, transcending it subtly: his young brother departing to school every morning, his grandfather putting on a pullover, the details of an interior (carpet, blanket), motifs on a garment or again his fathers car as he waits for him at the station, take on a troubling poetic and plastic dimension.
